OPPORTUNITIES FOR INDUSTRY
TERENA Networking Conference 2008
Bruges (Brugge), Belgium
19 - 22 May 2008

Introduction

TERENA, the Trans-European Research and Education Networking Association, is holding its 2008 annual networking conference at the ‘Oud Sint-Jan’ Conference Centre, in the medieval city of Bruges, one of the UNESCO World Heritage sites. It will be hosted by BELNET, the Belgian national member of TERENA.

BELNET is the Belgian national research and education network (NREN). It provides a broad spectrum of services for the Belgian education and research communities. The year 2008 will be special, featuring the launch of BELNET’s new optical dark fibre network.

The Programme Committee of the conference is chaired by Diego R. Lopez, coordinator of Middleware and Applications at RedIRIS, the Spanish NREN. The Committee is made up of a number of leading experts in various fields of research networking, including Grids, campus issues, security and network architecture.

Companies who are ahead of their competitors have an opportunity to present their achievements to a community of ‘early adapters’. This community is generally several steps ahead of the Internet industry in general and represents, in itself, a sizeable market.

TERENA Networking Conferences are well-established events focusing on new directions, trends and technology. The conference brings together leading figures from research, management, industry and governance to present and discuss the technical and strategic aspects of the provision of networks and services to the research and education community. Together, the participants at the conference represent an annual information technology spend of over 1,000 million euro.

TERENA, as a not-for-profit organisation, is committed to organising the conference on a break-even basis. Consequently, a level of corporate contributions is sought to fund an affordable registration fee, which will attract more participants from the research sector.

I would like to thank you for taking time to read our programme of sponsorship and exhibition opportunities. TERENA looks forward to a mutually beneficial partnership with sponsoring organisations for the 2008 conference and thereafter.

GENERAL INFORMATION

What is the TERENA Networking Conference?

Worldwide, the education and research communities have been, and still are, at the forefront of Internet development. Separate organisations have been formed for this, such as Internet2 in the USA and the various National Research and Education Networks (NRENs) in Europe. At the European level, all NRENs collaborate in TERENA. The TERENA Networking Conference is the annual event where experts from the European NRENs come together to exchange the latest information with one another, with counterparts from other continents and with representatives from industry and government. As such, the TERENA Networking Conference is the European counterpart of the Internet2 Member Meetings in the USA and the APAN Meetings in the Asia/Pacific area.

The TERENA Networking Conference hosts an annual workshop for all those involved in GÉANT2, the pan-European research and education network that is co-funded by the European Community and implemented by a consortium involving 30 European NRENs, TERENA and TERENA's sister organisation, DANTE. Many other projects and initiatives use the occasion of the TERENA Networking Conference for a meetings immediately before and after the conference.

Who attends TERENA conferences?

The TERENA conference annually attracts some 500 participants. Most come from European countries, a minority come from other continents. Just under half the participants are from universities and research centres, some 40% come from NRENs and the remainder are from industry and government. Within universities and research centres, the largest group is that of network administrators. The other two large groups are network researchers and managers. Most participants from the NRENs are managers or experts working on research and development. Many of the participants are not only decision makers for their own institutions, there are often also national authorities in their field, directly or indirectly influencing Internet-related decisions of many other organisations.

Participants consistently evaluate TERENA Conferences very positively.

What are the main opportunities for corporate exposure?

Speaker opportunities

In order to safeguard the academic content of the conference, there is no link between sponsorship and speaking opportunities (except in the case of the Main Sponsor). Speakers are either invited by members of the Programme Committee for their knowledge and reputation in a specific area of interest to the conference or are selected from among the papers that have been submitted for the conference. The Call for Papers is published in early October (in print and on the conference website), with a deadline usually at the end of November. Companies interested in speaking opportunities are advised to study the Call for Papers and to submit paper as relevant to them.

BoF Sessions

Normally, Birds of a Feather (BoF) Sessions take place on Tuesday and Wednesday in the conference week, immediately after the end of the Conference programme. These sessions are the responsibility of the person(s) or organisation hosting them and not of the Programme Committee. Industry sponsors of the conference are allowed to host a BoF session. These sessions will be announced through the conference website and in the Final Programme of the conference. Note that no guarantees can be given about the attendance at these sessions.
Communication with delegates

All participants receive a paper copy of the list of pre-registered delegates in their delegate bags. These lists contain information about the professional affiliation of delegates and e-mail addresses. In order to protect the privacy of delegates, these lists are not made available before the conference, nor are they made available in electronic format.

We are able to send e-mail messages to delegates, both before and during the event on request (within moderation). Within reasonable limits, we will alert delegates to certain speakers, to special demonstrations, side events, giveaways and other information that may be of interest to sponsors and delegates.

Meeting rooms for special events

There is a possibility to rent additional room(s) of various sizes in the Conference Centre that could be used for events before and after the formal conference programme. (No events can be scheduled in parallel to the formal conference programme). More information about these opportunities is available upon request.

Sponsorship and exhibition

This package provides information about the possibilities for being a general sponsor of the conference (which includes publication of the logo on conference publications and publication of logo and link on the conference website) or for sponsoring specific items (such as the social events) and for exhibiting at the conference. Obviously, higher sponsorship amounts translate into more exposure.

Note that tailor-made sponsor opportunities can be made available, depending on company wishes.
SPONSORSHIP

In the past, many well-known companies, such as Cisco, Juniper, CIENA, IBM, Colt and ADVA Optical have sponsored TERENA Networking Conferences.

We offer both general sponsorship opportunities and the possibility to sponsor individual items.
